

South Metropolitan TAFE offers support and services to students, so they have equal opportunity to participate and gain qualifications.

Our Student Support Advisors can assist students with a medical condition, injury or disability. This includes conditions such as dyslexia, autism spectrum conditions, ADHD, depression and many more.

Our services and supports include:

- Talking to lecturers about individual student needs
- Advice on ways to adapt study activities or assessments
- Assistive equipment and technology
- Study materials in alternative format, such as audio or large print
- Auslan interpreting for Deaf students
- Information about the mentoring and tutoring scheme for apprentices
- Specialised study support strategies

If you have an ongoing injury, long-term illness, mental health condition or disability that affects your study or participation in training activities, you may be eligible for assistance.

For more information or to book an appointment:
