Your Business Career

So, you're interested in a career in business but not sure where to start? Why not pair a Diploma or Advanced Diploma from South Metropolitan TAFE with a Bachelor of Business from Murdoch University. Build the foundations in business with your TAFE course, and then take it to the next level by specialising in an area you're passionate about with a Bachelor's degree at Murdoch University.

If you're someone who didn't pursue an ATAR pathway, or is not academically ready to jump straight into university study, starting with a TAFE course might be the right choice for you. During your studies at TAFE, you'll be immersed in a supportive environment of a technical College before taking on more intense or independent study at university.

Whether you decide to enter the workforce straight after TAFE or accelerate your studies at Murdoch, either way you will graduate job-ready for a variety of fulfilling roles in business.

What is a Bachelor of Business?

A Bachelor of Business is the perfect choice if you're looking for broad business knowledge to solve business problems, or start your own business. And because at Murdoch they like to do things differently, instead of just sitting in a classroom, you'll gain hands-on experience to prepare you for your future in business. Think opportunities to work on industry projects, professional placements and even simulated environments. While at the same time learning how to create strategies that address a range of complex business challenges, and build global leadership skills.

How to get there

By completing your Diploma or Advanced Diploma, not only can you use this as your pathway into Murdoch University, but you can also get credit towards units in your degree. This could take up to one year off a three-year degree, meaning you'll be able to enter the workforce sooner with both a TAFE qualification and university degree under your belt.
