

Skills for Study

Academic support for South Metropolitan TAFE students

Skills for Study offers in-class support for students. This support involves a literacy or numeracy lecturer team-teaching with the vocational lecturer to assist all students with the learning process. The role of the Skills for Study lecturer is to identify and respond to students' needs by providing literacy and numeracy support to prepare them for assessment activities or to perform industry tasks.

What are the benefits?

Students enrolled in Skills for Study are provided with additional student/lecturer support in the classroom. Students can use the Skills for Study support to build on their skills and may be better prepared for the course requirements.

How is it organised?

Skills for Study support is organised by the vocational teaching team when additional literacy and numeracy support is required. The support is available to the whole class.

What are the costs?

None! Skills for Study support is free for all students.

Are there assessments to be completed?

No! There are no assessments associated with Skills for Study delivery. You will only be completing assessments/tasks for the vocational units that you have enrolled in.
